The original version of the NOAA KLM User's Guide is based on the work done by Katherine B. Kidwell and has been frequently updated to reflect instrument changes, new platforms, additional products, as well as, changes to the processing, data access and archive procedures. Many thanks to the dedicated people within the offices of NOAA and NASA and to the various stakeholders, who have made this document an essential resource of information to thousands of users worldwide.

Again I wish to thank Kathy for the fine work that she did in maintaining and enlarging this document and in the support she gave me when I assumed her responsibilities.
